Professional Profile

Mr. Auerbach is an architectural designer with experience in the design of residential and mixed-use buildings. Prior to his current role, he contributed to historic renovation projects, producing architectural documentation, developing details, coordinating trades, and researching building codes. He is also well-versed in topics concerning digital modeling and fabrication, translations across software, as well as between drawing, model, and building. His diverse skillset allows him to bridge technical and conceptual aspects of architectural practice.

Mr. Auerbach completed his M.Arch at Rhode Island School of Design where he was the recipient of the Henry Fernandez Award for Excellence in the History and Theory of Architecture. Additionally, he holds a B.A. in both Philosophy and Mathematics from Skidmore College.
